This problem requires you to select three stocks for a hypothetical trading securities investment portfolio. Assume you invest $100,000 in each company at beginning of "day 1."

Prepare a daily journal entry at the end of each day for 5 consecutive business days to properly account for the change in value of your trading securities portfolio.

Numerous internet sites or the business section of most newspapers should allow you to readily track the changes in value of your stocks!

Keep detailed notes to document the changes in value of your investments, and have a classmate audit your journal entries.
